

109 Glenwood Blvd.,
Schenectady, N.Y.,
Jan. 2, 1923.

My dear Commerford:

I have yours of Christmas Day - it is not too late to wish you and family a Happy New Year, which I heartily do now.

In re. the awarding of the Edison Medal to an engineer, who has done a big thing in combining electrical things into a cooperative whole of great utility to the public, I answer the question (personally) by voting "yes". But he must have been a pioneer at that sort of job.

I have separately sent you the Dec. issue of the G. E. Review, containing my article on the honors to Edison, in New York, in the Edisonian Year 1922; also the Schenectady Works News, recounting his visit here, on Oct. 18th.

Much pleasure to you, and helpful information on your near-coming trip to Old England, and a safe return.

With best wishes for good luck all around.

Sincerely yours,

Chas. L. Clark.

T. C. Martin, Eng.
Northampton,
Ringville P.O.,
Mass.